Run 1680 – Grewsome Caringbah

The pack walked out of the carpark at Caringbah – yes, the lot walked – ‘runners’ and all.

Rabbit had been given a map by the hare – on the grounds that she wanted to run but didn’t want to get lost..... a map is not much help if you cannot read one.... as the TM (and a bunch of walkers) discovered when Rabbit kept asking us to show her where we were on the map.

Spinifex and Sniffer were jogging (I would not stretch to call it running) and walking in spurts – they claimed to have been in training because they wanted to be able to say when they went hashing overseas that they had been running overseas not walking overseas... made a good story.... In and out of a few laneways zigging and zagging through houses tested the extremities of the hare’s map and the TM’s orienteering skills – so that the pack did an unplanned on-back into a backyard – before Scotch Mist called a halt to the proceedings and suggested we backtrack to where the trail might actually go. Goon was spruiking the merits of a run that had walkers (his current state) and runners still together.

Heading towards a park that the hare had tried to explain about the ins and outs of the trail – instead the TM let the pack run wild – Cold Duck ran backwards through an on-back (hard to explain if you were not there) and Pig ran an on-back over a bridge.... back into the streets for another series of checks and on-backs for Sir Les to get some extra exercise.

Dundee claimed that it was the same run that the hare had set last time – but that didn't seem to help Dundee at the very next check point – when he took the wrong option. And a counter claim was made at the circle (see later report) by Merkin that the hare had set Merkin's trail in reverse – who can we believe in a world of fake news.....

Bingo was speeding along – fully acknowledging that it was of necessity – as she would never be able to find her way home – even if it was in her local suburb.....

By the time the runners sprinted towards the bucket, the walkers had already gathered in the quiet sanctuary of the far flung ends of the carpark (necessary as the last time we gathered in this place, we had been shouted at by an anxious mother trying to get her baby to sleep above the 'harmonious' tones of a few drunken ~~sailors~~ hashers singing under her balcony to keep out of the rain).

Time for a few more tales about the trail.....

CIRCLE UP!!

Hannibal was back – caped up and full of valuable information about the wonders and delights of Caringbah. Read on, dear reader ...

Caringbah is consistently rated the 3rd best suburb in the Shire after Jannali (which would have had the advantage, when the votes were taken, of the topless hostess evenings at the Jannali Hotel on a Tuesday) and Taren Point. A favourable review from a resident is,

Liveable, but not the best"

This is probably not the place for everyone, though there are some good things about the area (close to Cronulla, shopping). I've lived here for eight years now and can realize it can be sometimes scary at night, especially in north Caringbah.

Another relatively good review is;

Central Caringbah is a dirty ugly place with lots of social issues. Avoid it if u can"

There are many affluent areas in Caringbah but the town centre leaves little to be desired. It has all the amenities u could want but it is very run down and ugly. It is very scary at night, loud sirens, drug problems, vandalism lots and I mean heaps of sirens going all the time. If you have the money don't move near the town centre unless you have to. There is no ambiance or beauty in downtown Caringbah. It is downright ugly. It is the Bronx of the shire but I guess it serves a purpose.

Run Report Summary

Merkin run report, reported

- Grewsome should lose points for plagiarism – setting the same run as Merkin did 10 years ago, but in reverse.
- It was a great opportunity for Merkin to catch up with all the friends that he doesn't see at lunch
- Even though he knew where the trail went – he still found himself approaching On-backs from the wrong direction.
- He wanted to be honest in assessment – and thought he run scored a worthy 7.5

Visitors –We love visitors – Stringbean (FF), Lauren (daughter of FF), Brazilian, and Meltdown (welcome daylight savings regular – who waits patiently for his down-down each week).

Prickette of the Week

Spinifex was nominated by Pig for being sacratic. I don't know what this either but it is exactly what I wrote down with my Doctors scribble. I assume that it was complimentary in some way.

Prick of the Week

Goon was nominated by Scotch Mist for nearly breaking Cameron's arm in an effort to protect his jatz.

Merkin was nominated by an unknown hasher (maybe Pig) for claiming that he actually had friends in the Shire.

Memo to all Employees

Re: Company Picnic

We are glad to have had such a great turnout for our first annual company picnic. While everyone seemed to enjoy themselves, our group did not exactly portray the public image we wish to convey.

Additionally, we are now seeking applicants for the position of "Administrative Assistant"

A policeman cruising past a pub after closing time notices two motor bikes still parked out the front. He goes round the back of the pub only to find two bikers, one with his fingers up the bum of the other.

"So what's going on here?" he asks.

The biker replies, "My mate here has had too much to drink and I'm trying to make him vomit."

The cop says, "I think you should be sticking your fingers down his THROAT!"

The biker replies, "That's what I'm going to do next!"
