Run Report

After arriving at the pub on time, I asked DNF for the map of the run, to which he replied - oh I suppose I had better get you one. By the time DNF arrived back with the map the pack had headed off. Not a great start. The trail started on the other side of Princes Highway and after waiting for about 5 minutes for the lights the TM was finally able to start. At this point I noted that the map didn't have any checks or on-backs marked - however I remained optimistic...

The run headed towards Rockdale Plaza where I was almost knocked out by a tree branch - fortunately Slops was there to assist and no blood.

I finally saw Goon and Tickle after crossing West Botany Street (where again the lights conspired against me). Tickle and I took a short cut through the park and met the pack at the one and only on-back of the run. The trail went down to Brighton where we crossed The Grand Parade only to cross back at the overpass in the Novotel. The trail then returned to the pub via more streets but without any checks or on backs.

I have no idea of the time between when the first runners returned and I got back as by that time I didn't care!

On On to the next run - hopefully with lots of checks and on backs (it has to be more than one!) Scotchmist

Circle Report

Rockdale does not have much to redeem itself these days, it is one ugly suburb. Any building of architectural merit is about to be or has been demolished to make way for featureless blocks of apartments. There is a park though and in this park is a pond and in this pond is, well, alligator weed, lots of it. Do not enter the water because if not eaten by alligators or suffocated by weed, you will die from pollutants put in the water to kill the alligators, doesn't work on them but it will certainly work on you!

On the brighter side, Rockdale is, in DNF's words "a royal suburb" (am sure the Queen will not be amused) and this was his "Royal" run because the trail included the Princes Hwy, King's Street, King's Lane, President Av (note to DNF, president is NOT a Royal); Queen Street, Princes Lane, Duke St etc. The suburb's second claim to fame is there are a lot of brothels – now this news would perk the Queen up a tad.

Run Reporter : Merkin

The run started really poorly, complete confusion after crossing the Princes Hwy at traffic lights with half the pack being cut off, the other half wondering around directionless and no one could hear a fucking thing. Some set off down the highway and were seen disappearing round a corner following Dundee (big mistake). Most made it past the tennis club, luckily finding trail again after pushing through a massive crowd of developers hanging outside the club's entrance. Trail went into the park, across a bridge ("what bridge?" asked Slops who was kind of there but not there). Not one check and only two on-backs. Merkin awarded the run 6/10 which was far too generous, it was a terrible run. DNF, you do remember how to set runs don't you? All very well claiming it to be a "royal" run but a hash run it was not. The Queen would not be pleased, the keen hasher that she is.

No Visitors or Birthdays but I believe Sir Les is a Grandfather again

Prick Nominations

Sir Les nominated Duck who called him prior to last week's committee meeting. "Can you please bring up the matter of the $40 refund given at the AGPU". "Why"? Because Duck had not got his $40, his wife had purloined it and he wanted a full confession from DW in front of the whole committee. DW confessed ages ago, besides you are supposed to be looking after her future wealth so stop complaining.

Speaking of wealth, Loan Arranger seized a golden opportunity to also dob Duck in. On trail, they saw a good sort (she was the one and only good thing to see in Rockdale). Duck decided a wolf whistle was in order and brought his quackery thingy into use.

Unfortunately, it sounded like a duck farting and she was not impressed, nor was the Queen.

Prickette Nomination

Dirty Weekend nominated Kizzme for looking like a member of a SWAT team about to head into the jungle. It was a hot night and even DW was showing off her naked arms and hands. Kizzme was wearing her full protection gear to prevent those pesky Rockadillian mozzies from nibbling at her delicate, porcelain skin.

Duck then nominated DW. He had made important changes to his long term financial planning which were intrinsic to DW's future wealth and happiness. She had to sign off on these changes. Duck was waiting, waiting for confirmation, nothing, nothing, so he rang his financial planner who told him that so far, they had not heard from DW. Duck then asked DW had she seen the message – "oh yes" she said "but I ignored it..." How come a financial planner needs a financial planner???

Top Bunk nominated Rabbit. Top Bunk had called her and, for some obscure reason, he asked what she was wearing. Rabbit refused to tell him and as Winning Streak did not hit Top Bunk at this point I assume the question was relevant. Later on, Top Bunk asked Rabbit why she wouldn't tell him – because at the time she wasn't wearing anything, nothing, nadda, nudie.

Spini nominated Blondie who had been at her place on Saturday afternoon. Doc, the lovely man he is drove her all the way over from Mascot to drop her off. Not quite sure he would have been feeling quite so generous and loving when she called him at 1.30am to pick her up – well, Doc must have a very big heart because he did!!
