Run Report

Didn't do the run but attempted to walk most of the trail, till the short cut became too enticing. However, having experienced many of the Pig initiated trials of breath & stamina & knowing the area very well, it would've been a very interesting yet taxing experience for the participants. From a winning perspective, it was the young effervescent Joker, who, apart from being an avid St. George supporter, left the pack in his wake as he careered over the finish line with enough energy to help the stand in scribe rescue the bucket – well the bucket that held the booze we wanted - long before anyone else was seen.

CIRCLE REPORT

RA – Loan Arranger - & first stand by – Duck - were no shows for the festivities so second stand by – Hannibal – began the formal part of the evening by expounding his incredible knowledge of everything geographic – Heathcote is 36kms from the city & is abo for place after Engadine. Amazing facts divulged every week from our walking National Geographic.

Run Report

The Run Reporter was Grewsome, simply because he forgot to ask anyone else to officiate this evening, began by wondering why some of the front runners were checking streets at the first checkpoint when there was lovely bush to experience. Of course the trail led into the wilds of the National Park, where the Hare had used his machete to carve a course avoiding snakes, crocodiles & deer hunters (yes it's deer culling season in the Shire) but still managed to lose Dame Nellie when his glasses fell from his nose, which meant that he didn't have any glasses to find his glasses. Early in the run the aforementioned asked why I wasn't running to which I replied crook Achilles. Not to be outdone he then said he had a crook knee & when asked what he was doing about it he stated he was running on it - obviously a genius medical practitioner in the making.

Because of the terrain & run enjoyment the run was awarded 10 out of 10.

Visitors

Hell I Smell Her Still don't know how she received that moniker.

Birthdays

Duck but he wasn't there.

Prick Nominations

Pig was nominated by Rex for training his dog to smell Harriette's crutches when they arrive, which is what Pig wanted to do himself but didn't think he could get away with it.

Grewsome was nominated by Holeproof for calling her Dawn, which is the name she used to use when plying her wares in the Cross many years ago & didn't want to be recognized by Hash people.

Dame Nellie was nominated by Grewsome for exhibiting his navigating experience as a sailor of some note – think he was the cleaner of the head – by calling left on the run then turning right. I suppose when he navigates he just points.

Prickette Nominations

Kizzme was nominated by Pig for something about telling him she would be away & back in March to pick up something or other & then forgetting she hadn't paid the money or something (ok I'm out of practice with this scribe thing & can't write fast & deaf in one ear).

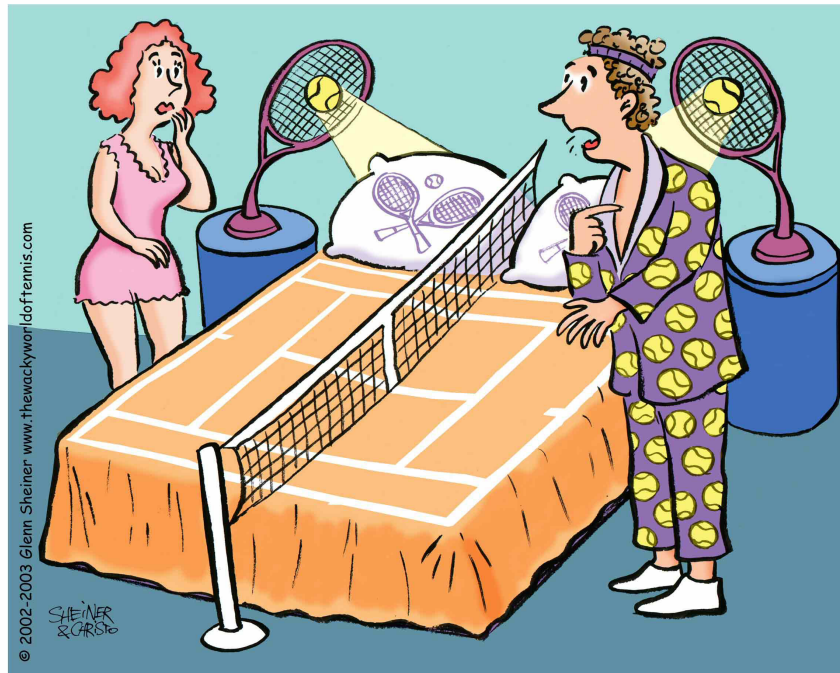

Pick and Prickette: Dame Nellie & Kizzme

"What do you mean I'm obsessed with tennis?"

Ok I know this cartoon was lodged some weeks ago by JJ but I'm using her Word Trash from that time to write this & thought it was a good segue to let you know that Kerrie (Mrs. Pig – wouldn't call her Sow) wants to know if we have any women tennis players, who would would like to learn how to lick their opponents.
